Programme Overview

MA Songwriting offers two modes of delivery: campus based (F2F) and distance-learning (DL).

Our approach maximises teaching and learning strategies whilst also facilitating networked, social aspects of the masters experience. Songwriting is increasingly an internationalised, multi-modal and mediated ecology utilising a range of resources and online platforms. Songwriters within professional, semi-professional, portfolio or academic careers, engage within a pedagogical shell structure which supports learning and content largely determined by the student.

Research into skills, technique, cultural and professional contexts seek to inform the production of industry-ready songs. The course has facilitated publishing deals, recording contracts, as well as a range of international academic and educational posts. Songwriting is a profession and a craft that enjoys the advantage of a broad range of viable career outcomes, from commercialised performance projects through primary and secondary school teaching to therapeutic and community applications. You will engage with research and practice of subjects, topics and approaches specific to your own career direction.

Songwriting is increasingly a networked, internationalised profession involving collaborations at all different stages of the craft. Bath Spa's internationalist outlook brings students onto campus from all over the world, and our Distance Learning and on-campus cohorts integrate your experiences within networked and interdisciplinary contexts. Both delivery modes enjoy excellent feedback from graduates and alumni, and we enjoy a rich network of interconnected BSU songwriters in the field.

As with all of the Music and Performance Masters, this programme places you within a creative and vibrant artistic community dedicated to all aspects of music and the performing arts. Your programme therefore sits within a dynamic environment where we actively encourage you to work with other practitioners and scholars from other disciplines. You will also work with professional practitioners from a similar range of backgrounds who will bring differing perspectives to your work.

As well as teaching, you how to write songs, the programme also prepares you for a range of career opportunities in the arts. Including, but not limited community music, commercial work, teaching, music agency, music production and doctoral study.

Programme Aims

Throughout the course, the curriculum aims to:

1. Extend and deepen songwriting practice
2. Develop an understanding of cultural and industrial contexts appropriate to career aspirations
3. Develop postgraduate research skills sufficient to prepare for potential PhD outcomes
4. Develop student ability to identify and accommodate potential audiences through songs and the discourses within which they communicate
5. Enhance critical faculties and self-evaluative skills, both as a music listener and songwriter.
6. Develop the ability to manage a long-range process of artistic production

Assessment methods

A range of summative assessment tasks will be used to test the Intended Learning Outcomes in each module. These are indicated in the attached assessment map which shows which tasks are used in which modules.

Students will be supported in their development towards summative assessment by appropriate formative exercises.

Please note: if you choose an optional module from outside this programme, you may be required to undertake a summative assessment task that does not appear in the assessment grid here to pass that module.

Work experience and placement opportunities

Throughout the MA students produce work within professional songwriting contexts. While it is not an assessment criterion, there is an expectation that students will seek external opportunities to have their work performed and programmed, either at music venues, open-mic events or festivals,. The programme equips students with professional skills, such as formulating projects, and understanding marketing, rights, royalties, and publishing.
