Programme Overview

The MA in Arts Management at Bath Spa builds on students' own previous experience and background, expanding their professional arts and cultural knowledge, management skills, entrepreneurial thinking, and creative leadership skills. Designed and delivered in close collaboration with leading arts organisations, the course provides students with the theoretical framework, appropriate skills and practical experience to meet the challenges of working in their chosen field.

The modules offered cover theory, critical thinking, skills development and practical experience; they have been designed to allow students to demonstrate an ability to analyse historic and current debates in and about culture and the arts; to apply this analysis to contemporary practice, structures, funding and participation; and to relate both to the complex range of activities involved in 'managing' the arts and culture.

On this course students take a combination of Arts Management specific modules (including a core arts and cultural management placement module) and appropriate more general Business and Management modules. For their 60 credit module, they have the option of choosing between a dissertation, or an extended placement project as their final module.

Programme Aims

1. To develop arts and cultural management knowledge and expertise at both theoretical and practical levels;
2. To engage students in current debates about development of the arts and cultural sectors, and to enable them to reflect on present challenges in the context of social, political and economic change;
3. To support the development of practitioners who can work in or around the sector in a range of roles, drawing on a broad mix of skills and experience;
4. To foster and support self-development through scholarly enquiry, peer discussion, evaluation, reflective practice and the application of scholarship and research to arts and cultural management practice;
5. To support the development of the skills necessary to lead, design and conduct a piece of original and/or innovative research, or to produce a substantial body of work for a range of partner arts and cultural organisations, underpinned by relevant analysis and reflection;
6. To provide opportunities for students to experience the aspects of arts and cultural management most relevant to their chosen career path.

Programme Intended Learning Outcomes (ILOs)

A Subject-Specific Skills and Knowledge

- A1 An ability to analyse past and current arts and cultural management practice and policy, and place this in its broader conceptual, social, economic and political context
- A2 An ability to analyse the key challenges, and the implications of these challenges, facing the sector at organisational, local, regional, national and/or international levels
- A3 A critical awareness of the complex relationships between economic/financial contexts and audience development, and strategic analysis and planning for arts and cultural organisations
- A4 A critical awareness of the ways in which organisational structure, development and dynamics relate to the way arts and cultural events and experiences are produced, presented and facilitated, and evaluated
- A5 A comprehensive understanding of the issues around leadership in complex and diverse organisations, and the management of people in varied contexts from governance boards to working with individual artists - and how these are shaped by internal and external forces and circumstances
- A6 A comprehensive understanding of the research methodologies, theories and sources appropriate for evaluating contemporary arts and cultural management practice and policy

B Cognitive and Intellectual Skills

- B1 To write/present coherent, concise, engaging and audience appropriate reports, case studies, reviews, etc., based on evidence from work-based experience and practice, and on scholarly and sector reading and research
- B2 To research across a range of academic disciplines and professional practical areas, and use a variety of sources and appropriate methodologies to investigate broad areas and more specific topics
- B3 To operate effectively, both individually and within a team in the planning, executing and evaluation of a range of tasks and projects in a logical, knowledgeable and professional manner
- B4 To successfully plan, complete and evaluate a range of work-based activities, relating these to appropriate research, critical thinking, policy contexts and current professional practice
- B5 To deal creatively and systematically with complex issues and with ambiguity
- B6 To analyse and solve problems, and make evidence-based, well-founded decisions in unpredictable or challenging situations
- B7 To understand the crucial need for ongoing Continuing Professional Development (CPD), and the importance of establishing, maintaining and constantly expanding professional networks

C Skills for Life and Work

C1 Autonomous learning (including time management) that demonstrates the exercise of initiative, personal responsibility and decision-making in complex and unpredictable situations and the independent learning ability required for continuing professional development

C2 Team working skills necessary to succeed in the global workplace, with an ability both to work in and lead teams effectively, as well as the ability to act autonomously in planning and implementing tasks at a professional or equivalent level

C3 Communication skills that show the ability to communicate clearly to specialist and non-specialist audiences knowledge at, or informed by, the forefront of the academic discipline, field of study or area of professional practice, and the conclusions drawn from dealing with complex issues systematically

C4 IT skills and digital literacy that demonstrate the ability to develop new skills to a high level and to approach complex issues systematically and creatively

Assessment methods

A range of summative assessment tasks will be used to test the Intended Learning Outcomes in each module. These are indicated in the attached assessment map which shows which tasks are used in which modules.

Students will be supported in their development towards summative assessment by appropriate formative exercises.

Please note: if you choose an optional module from outside this programme, you may be required to undertake a summative assessment task that does not appear in the assessment grid here in order to pass that module.

Work experience and placement opportunities

Work-based experience is an essential part of this course. The University has contacts and partnerships with a wide range of local, regional, national and international arts and cultural organisations. There are opportunities for work-based experience in, and beyond Bath and the local area.

All students engage in work-based experience in the module AM7004-30 Placement. Students produce a portfolio that reflects on their experience of working within an arts organisation, and offers them the opportunity to consider this experience within the wider context of arts and cultural management today.

This can then extend into the final 60 credit module AM7005-60 Extended Placement Project as the basis for the final project portfolio, or students can take a second placement at a different organisation.

Work-based experience and formal placements are supported by the Bath Business School Graduate Course Director, the MA Arts Management Placements Coordinator, and by a designated mentor in the host organisation

Graduate Attributes

	Bath Spa Graduates...	In Arts Management, this means...
1	Will be employable: equipped with the skills necessary to flourish in the global workplace, able to work in and lead teams	The embedded work-based experience on this course ensures students leave with practical experience, graduate level skills, and will have started to develop their own professional networks.
2	Will be able to understand and manage complexity, diversity and change	The very nature of the arts and cultural sector today means that students graduate with a nuanced understanding of complexity, and are both resilient and ready to adapt in a diverse range of constantly changing situations and contexts.
3	Will be creative: able to innovate and to solve problems by working across disciplines as professional or artistic practitioners	Arts and cultural management requires creative innovative approaches to the challenges facing the sector - through practical experience, and theoretical underpinning, students graduate understanding how important creativity, innovation, and collaboration are for arts organisations.
4	Will be digitally literate: able to work at the interface of creativity and technology	From access to the University's digital resources, through to constant engagement with how digital technology is transforming a range of aspects of arts and cultural management, students graduate from the MA in Arts Management with digital skills developed in the classroom, and crucially through practical work-based experience on placement.

5	Will be internationally networked: either by studying abroad for part of the their programme, or studying alongside students from overseas	The arts, culture, and the creative industries are inherently global. From the multi-cultural international makeup of the cohort of students on the course, to the range of international academic and sector partners students have the opportunity to engage with, to the international projects and organisations used as case studies - students on the MA in Arts Management graduate with an awareness of how arts and cultural management functions globally, and with the beginning of their own international professional network.
6	Will be creative thinkers, doers and makers	MA in Arts Management graduates are always inherently creative thinkers, doers and makers. They start the course with their own individual artistic, cultural or management background, and then move forward to understand how this enables them to contribute to arts and cultural organisations in a more strategic way. Through the practical elements of the course, they demonstrate how much they bring to the organisations they work with - making, doing, and thinking creatively with an enhanced understanding of context, constraints and opportunities.
7	Will be critical thinkers: able to express their ideas in written and oral form, and possessing information literacy	Students on the MA in Arts Management graduate understanding how to question information and critically assess current policy and practice. They leave with experience in communicating with a range of audiences, able to gage how best to get crucial, evidence-based information across, and they know how to research as graduate scholars, and as sector practitioners.
8	Will be ethically aware: prepared for citizenship in a local, national and global context	Sustainability - environmental, financial, ethical - are key issue in arts and cultural management today. Across all aspects of the course - taught content, practical work-based experience, assessment and placement related research, and professional sector engagement - students constantly encounter, discuss, research and practically engage in current debates on ethics, equity, diversity, and cultural citizenship.
