Programme Overview

The MA Education Programme at Bath Spa University provides you with critical insights into the key educational issues of the day. It supports you to study at an advanced level the key theories and practices of education internationally, equipping you to take on significant leadership roles in a range of related fields. You will learn how to question the policies and organisations involved in defining the purposes, content and outcomes of education. You will choose to study on one of our four distinctive pathways:

1. International Education
2. Early Childhood Studies
3. Leadership and Management
4. Education Studies

All the pathways provide a sound foundation for doctoral study. An overview of each pathway is provided below.

MA Education: (International Education) provides the opportunity to understand comparative and international education policy and practice. This award is particularly relevant to those from developed and developing countries that plan to work in professional, management and education roles in both national and international education systems.

MA Education: (Early Childhood Studies) is designed to provide you with opportunities to examine and critique a range of topics in early childhood from birth to eight years. The award has a particular focus on cultural and social perspectives of early childhood and interrogates a number of taken-for-granted assumptions about the nature of childhood.

MA Education: (Leadership and Management) is designed for those who are interested in becoming, or are presently working as, middle and senior managers and leaders in schools or other educational organisations in a variety of global contexts. Drawing on internationally based research, this course offers a critical and culturally based understanding of leadership as a socially constructed and ethical practice.

MA Education: (Education Studies) provides you with an opportunity to study educational issues in depth. You will explore the inter-relationship between policy, professional practice and education theory within an international context, drawing upon the key disciplines of psychology, sociology, philosophy and history to inform and extend your knowledge and practice.

Programme Aims

1. To develop confident, well informed and resourceful educational practitioners who are capable of analysing and questioning the aims, values and outcomes of education in local and global contexts;
2. To engage students with a wide range of reading and debates across the foundation disciplines of education: sociology, psychology, philosophy and history;
3. To encourage the development of reflection as a skill to support continuing professional development;
4. To transform students' understanding of their role in social and educational change through an understanding of global issues and debates;
5. To develop the ability to explore international education issues from an intercultural and interdisciplinary perspective;
6. To equip students to understand the role, range and purpose of educational research and enquiry
7. To enable participants to develop, plan and conduct an in-depth study of a topic that has professional relevance for them and offers an original contribution to knowledge.
8. To develop knowledge, skills and understanding that supports professional development and career progression or doctoral study in related educational contexts.

Programme Intended Learning Outcomes (ILOs): (NB These ILOs are at Level 7 of the FHEQ)

A Subject-Specific Skills and Knowledge

You will demonstrate:

A1. Acquisition and understanding of knowledge in the field of education, including the various theoretical positions, traditions and paradigms.

A2 Critical reflection on, and evaluation of, your own practice and that of others as well as the ability to provide an evidence base in support of claims made for evolving competencies.

A3 A comprehensive understanding of current issues in education informed by scholarship and research, and the capacity to identify its significance and relevance in educational settings within national and global contexts.

A4 A comprehensive knowledge and understanding of theoretical underpinnings relevant to education as presented in published research and policy literature.

B Cognitive and Intellectual Skills

You will demonstrate:

B1 The ability to articulate a clearly structured and cohesive original argument.

B2 The ability to design and manage a research project which is ethically compliant and academically rigorous

B3 Synthesis of ideas and information in an innovative format and apply them to new cases or research questions

B4 Development of personal effectiveness, self-awareness and self-management.

C Skills for Life and Work

You will demonstrate:

Assessment methods

A range of summative assessment tasks will be used to test the Intended Learning Outcomes in each module. These are indicated in the attached assessment map which shows which tasks are used in which modules.

Students will be supported in their development towards summative assessment by appropriate formative exercises.

Please Note: If you choose an optional module from outside this programme, you may be required to undertake a summative assessment task that does not appear in the assessment grid here in order to pass that module.

Work experience and placement opportunities

If you are currently employed as an educational professional, many of the learning tasks and assessments set during your award can be adapted to being undertaken within your professional context. Most pathways will include visiting speakers from and visits to a range of educational contexts; however there is no requirement for you to undertake work experience or placements during your studies. Whilst there are no specific work experience or placement opportunities incorporated into this course, there will be opportunities to reflect on professional experience and to discuss real life situations within the seminars. It may be possible for informal visits to be arranged to visit schools and / or other educational settings.
