Programme Overview

MA Commercial Music is designed for graduates who wish to extend the skills they have developed at BA level in order to focus on a particular area of the music industry and also professionals who may wish to galvanise their experience and further develop their skill set in order to enhance and widen their career prospects.

MA commercial music allows you to specialise in one of three key areas: Song writing, Music Production and Music Business. On each pathway you will develop your core skills, identify your particular areas of expertise within your specialism and then apply this knowledge in the realisation of a major project.

This is a highly adaptable model which will allow you to choose a major project entirely applicable to your individual career aims. As a songwriter this might be creating your own album as an artist, but it could also be writing for others and perhaps developing a showcase of material to pitch to publishers. As a producer you may wish to apply your skills to your own music, or you may focus on producing other artists. In relation to music business this could be anything from artist management, setting up your own promotions company or starting a record label. These are just examples, there are no boundaries to how you might wish to apply the skills that you are developing on this course.

Whichever area you choose to specialise in you will be working with tutors who have worked in the music industry at the highest level. Their experience includes, number one albums, gold and multi-platinum recordings, Bafta awards, Grammy nominations and international touring and recording experience at the highest level.

An extremely important aspect of the Commercial Music MA is the flexibility and adaptability of our delivery model. Our 'blended learning' approach allows us to work in a way that fits your creative practice and professional commitments. However, if you do want to engage with the on-campus culture more fully we offer you the chance to attend any undergraduate lecture you choose. This is a wonderful opportunity to augment your specialist focus with additional relevant skills from across our undergraduate programme. Examples include music business, digital marketing, video production, composing music with technology and performance. You will also be able to join in our vibrant programme of industry guest lectures, songwriting circles and regular live events.

Programme Aims

Throughout the course, the curriculum aims to:

1. Provide an environment and pedagogical approach where original creativity can develop and thrive
2. Promote collaborative working which relates to the current professional practices of the music/creative industries
3. Engender an ethos of entrepreneurialism and enterprise into all practical activities
4. Provide a range of digital skills to maximise learners' employability and ability to work across and combine a diverse range of specialisms
5. Provide new insights into Commercial Music
6. Engender a systemic understanding of techniques applicable to your research or advanced scholarship
7. Encourage originality in your application of knowledge, practical techniques and research when creating work or ideas
8. Enable you to develop critiques of current research and advanced scholarship in Commercial Music, and where appropriate, to propose new hypotheses
