Programme Overview

The Professional Practice in Higher Education programme supports the professional development of staff involved in higher education, providing a structure for continued professional development as part of flexible master's level study in a range of potential areas of interest. Bath Spa University is committed to enhancing learning and teaching and provide its students with the highest quality learning experience. The Professional Practice in Higher Education programme supports the university strategy and commitments by providing structured and substantial development for staff at master's level, enhancing their professional practice and in turn enhancing the educational experience at the university.

Participants on the programme come from a wide range of job roles, including both academic and professional service roles, and consequently have a wide range of interests. The Professional Practice in Higher Education programme is thus designed primarily to be flexible, with a wide range of option modules covering different areas of education and higher education practice. Participants on the programme are all part-time students working in higher education environments, with the modular programme enabling them to study relevant topics over a number of years as suits their practice and interests at the time, with exit points at PGCert and PGDip level possible to cater for different levels of interest. Some modules are focussed on specific continued professional development for academic practice in both teaching and research and the programme provides study in these areas in more depth. The programme further enables those involve in teaching to additionally gain a nationally recognised accredited status with the Higher Education Academy via the accreditation of part of the programme.

Programme Aims

1. To encourage and support the continued professional development of higher education staff
2. To develop critically reflective higher education professional practitioners
3. To embed an evidence based approach to professional practice in higher education
4. To develop research skills applied to and to inform participants' professional practices.
5. To enhance the quality of educational provision at the university
6. To provide development of staff practice aligned with institutional priorities, national frameworks, and masters level study

Programme Intended Learning Outcomes (ILOs)

(NB These ILOs are at level 7 of the FHEQ)

A Subject-specific Skills and Knowledge

A1 A critical awareness of professional understanding within the field of professional practice in higher education, and the capacity to identify its significance and relevance in educational settings within national and global contexts

A2 Critical reflection and evaluation of your own practice and that of others as well as the ability to provide an evidence base in support of claims made for evolving competencies

A3 In-depth understanding of current issues and developments informed by scholarship and research, and ability to apply this to professional situations

A4 Knowledge and understanding of theoretical underpinnings associated with professional practice in higher education as presented in published research and policy literature.

B Cognitive and Intellectual Skills

B1 The ability to articulate a clearly structured and cohesive original argument

B2 The ability to design and manage a research project which is ethically compliant, academically rigorous and professionally relevant

B3 Synthesis of ideas and information in an innovative format and apply them to new cases or research questions

B4 Development of personal effectiveness, self-awareness and self-management

C Skills for Life and Work

C1 Autonomous learning (including time management) that demonstrates the exercise of initiative, personal responsibility and decision-making in complex and unpredictable situations and the independent learning ability required for continuing professional development

C2 Team working skills necessary to succeed in the global workplace, with an ability both to work in and lead teams effectively, as well as the ability to act autonomously in planning and implementing tasks at a professional or equivalent level

C3 Communication skills that show the ability to communicate clearly to specialist and non- specialist audiences knowledge at, or informed by, the forefront of the academic discipline, field of study or area of professional practice, and the conclusions drawn from dealing with complex issues systematically

C4 IT skills and digital literacy that demonstrate the ability to develop new skills to a high level and to approach complex issues systematically and creatively

Assessment methods

A range of summative assessment tasks will be used to test the Intended Learning Outcomes in each module. These are indicated in the attached assessment map which shows which tasks are used in which modules.

Students will be supported in their development towards summative assessment by appropriate formative exercises.

Please note: if you choose an optional module from outside this programme, you may be required to undertake a summative assessment task that does not appear in the assessment grid here in order to pass that module.

Work experience and placement opportunities

There are no specific additional work experience or placement opportunities in the programme. However, all participants are professionals in a higher education context. Some modules are based around work-based learning and the purpose of the programme is for PPHE study to enhance professional practice. Participants are expected to reflect on and integrate their study within their work practice, and use this context as the basis for their options, learning activities, and assessment.

Graduate Attributes

	Bath Spa Graduates...	In Professional Practice in Higher Education, this means...
1	Will be employable: equipped with the skills necessary to flourish in the global workplace, able to work in and lead teams	Being flexible and versatile HE professionals with a knowledge and understanding of a range of educational issues. The programme is designed specifically to provide professional development and further skills directly linked to the HE work environment. Some parts of the programme can lead to HEA fellowships being awarded directly, or act as CPD towards that goal.
2	Will be able to understand and manage complexity, diversity and change	Understanding the rapidly changing context of the institution, sector, discipline and students, with their competing priorities and diversity. The programme provides greater depth of understanding of these issues to in turn be used to manage the complexity, diversity and change in their own professional practice.
3	Will be creative: able to innovate and to solve problems by working across disciplines as professional or artistic practitioners	Using a range of tools and innovative methods to develop practices. The programme is taught cross-disciplinarily with the intention of cultivating a wider community of practice. Participants are expected to identify and develop solutions to issues in their practice and/or teaching, evaluating them along the way.
4	Will be digitally literate: able to work at the interface of creativity and technology	Using appropriate technological tools for teaching and/or wider professional practice. The programme introduces a range of technology with some module options focussed on the topic explicitly. Participants are exposed to the university's technology tools from a student perspective and expected to use that experience in their own use as an HE professional.
5	Will be internationally networked: either by studying abroad for part of the their programme, or studying alongside students from overseas	Participants on the programme study with others from across the disciplines at the university and within the option modules, alongside those on other programmes. Additionally there is a specific module on international HE available, and all learning and teaching modules are aligned with the UKPSF values which state participants should "acknowledge the wider context in which HE operates recognising the implications for professional practice".

6	Will be creative thinkers, doers and makers	Creative thinking is intrinsic in designing and planning interesting and intellectually stimulating learning experiences to engage students, the programme seek to develop these skills through formative workshop tasks and summative practice project-based assignments.
7	Will be critical thinkers: able to express their ideas in written and oral form, and possessing information literacy	Thinking critically about educational processes, practice and issues as a fundamental skill in professional practice. This is a key element and purpose of the programme throughout all modules. The programme introduces recommended reading but also encourages participants to find their own subject specific resources and read all material critically, evaluating their practice experiences and contexts and reflecting critically on these. We also encourage critical discussion of contemporary issues in HE during workshop sessions.
8	Will be ethically aware: prepared for citizenship in a local, national and global context	Being aware of the context of participants own practice and that of the students, the law, and responsibilities of all staff in HEIs. The Professional Values of the UKPSF are part of the design of several accredited modules, which includes a specific look at roles and responsibilities, equality and diversity. Ethical consent is addressed further in the research methods and dissertation modules and all research within the programme is expected to pass any required ethical approval.
